

2012 Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling®

Press Release—April 6, 2012

COMAP is pleased to announce the results of the 14th annual Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling (ICM). This year, a record 1329 teams representing institutions from six countries participated in the contest. Seven teams were designated as OUTSTANDING WINNERS representing the following schools:

- Cornell University, Ithaca, NY (INFORMS winner)
- Huazhong University of Science and Technology, Wuhan, China
- Mathematical Modeling Innovative Practice Base, China
- Nanjing University of Information Science and Technology, Nanjing, China
- Northwestern Polytechnical University, Shaanxi, China
- Shanghai Jiaotong University, Shanghai, China
- University of Electronic Science and Technology of China, Chengdu, China

This year's contest ran from Thursday, February 9 to Monday, February 13, 2012. During that time, teams of three students researched, analyzed, modeled, and communicated a solution to an open-ended interdisciplinary modeling problem. The 2012 ICM was primarily an online contest, where teams registered and obtained contest materials through COMAP's ICM Website.

This year's problem involved identifying the members of a criminal network through social network analysis of message traffic of an organization. It required teams to understand concepts from the informational and social sciences to build effective network models to analyze the message data between 83 people involving over 600 messages categorized into 15 topics. The problem contained many complex and multifaceted issues to be analyzed and had several challenging requirements for innovative scientific and mathematical modeling, analysis, comparison, and decision making to identify the most-likely criminals. In addition to network analysis and data mining, the teams had to explain the potential use of semantic and text analysis to improve their models. This problem's inclusion of network science and criminal analysis interested many teams resulting in a doubling of the number of ICM teams in just one year. The problem also had the ever-present ICM requirements to use thorough data analysis, creativity, approximation and precision, along with effective writing and visualizations to communicate their results in a 20-page report.

The seven Outstanding solution papers will be published in The UMAP Journal, along with commentaries from the problem author and judges. All the members of the 1329 competing teams are to be congratulated for their excellent work and enthusiasm for scientific and mathematical modeling and interdisciplinary problem solving. This year's judges remarked that despite the challenging problem with myriad difficult tasks, the quality of the modeling, analysis, and presentation was extremely high.

ICM is associated with COMAP's Mathematical Contest in Modeling (MCM), which was held during the same weekend. ICM is designed to develop and advance interdisciplinary problem-solving skills in science, technology, engineering, mathematics (STEM) and the humanities, as well as competence in written communication. Over the years the ICM problems have included topics in environmental science, biology, chemistry, resource management, operations research, information science, public health, and network science. Each team is expected to include advisors and team members who represent a range of disciplinary and interdisciplinary interests in applied problem solving and modeling. Next year's problem will once again involve a problem in network science as its topic theme. This is an emerging area of interest and advancement for society and relevant to the future of the student contestants. To obtain additional information about the ICM and to obtain a complete listing of all team designations, please visit the ICM Website at: www.mcmcontest.com, or contact COMAP at: mcm@comap.com.

Major start-up funding for the ICM was provided by a grant from the National Science Foundation (through Project INTERMATH) and COMAP. Additional support is provided by The Institute for Operations Research and the Management Sciences (INFORMS). COMAP's Mathematical Contest in Modeling and Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling are unique among modeling competitions in that they are the only international contests in which students work in teams to find a solution. Centering its educational philosophy on mathematical modeling, COMAP uses mathematical tools to explore real-world problems. It serves the educational community as well as the world of work by preparing students to become better informed—and prepared—citizens, consumers, workers, and community leaders.
