

2014 Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling®

Press Release—April 4, 2014

COMAP is pleased to announce the results of the 16th annual Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling (ICM). This year 1028 teams representing institutions from three countries participated in the contest. Six teams were designated as OUTSTANDING WINNERS representing the following schools:

- Central University of Finance and Economics, China
- National University of Defense Technology, China
- Southeast University, China (INFORMS winner)
- Tsinghua University, China (2)
- Xidian University, China

This year's contest ran from Thursday, February 6 to Monday, February 10, 2014. During that time, teams of three students researched, analyzed, modeled, and communicated a solution to an open-ended interdisciplinary modeling problem. The 2014 ICM was primarily an online contest, where teams registered and obtained contest materials through COMAP's ICM Website.

This year's problem involved building a network model for determining influence in a large coauthor network (Paul Erdos' co-authors) and measuring impact within a set of foundational papers within the discipline of network science. This problem required teams to mine a large data set and understand concepts from the informational sciences to build an effective model for these complex phenomena. The problem contained many multifaceted issues to be analyzed and had several challenging requirements for innovative scientific and mathematical modeling and analysis. In addition to network modeling, informational analysis, and data collection, the teams had to explain the nature of influence and impact in an academic social network and show how their models could be used to help make informed decisions. This year's problem continued the ICM theme of network science for a third year. The problem also had the ever-present ICM requirements to use thorough data analysis, creative modeling, and scientific methodology, along with effective writing and visualization to communicate their teams' results in a 20-page report.

A selection from the Outstanding solution papers will be featured in The UMAP Journal, along with commentaries from the problem author and judges. All the members of the 1028 competing teams are to be congratulated for their excellent work and enthusiasm for scientific and mathematical modeling and interdisciplinary problem solving. This year's judges remarked that despite the challenging problem with myriad difficult tasks, the quality of the modeling, analysis, and presentation was extremely high. COMAP will also produce a volume on the 16-year history of the ICM later this year.

ICM is associated with COMAP's Mathematical Contest in Modeling (MCM), which was held during the same weekend. ICM is designed to develop and advance interdisciplinary problem-solving skills in science, technology, engineering, mathematics (STEM) and the humanities, as well as competence in data science and written communication. Over the years the ICM problems have included topics in environmental science, biology, chemistry, resource management, operations research, information science, public health, and network science. Each team is expected to include advisors and team members who represent a range of disciplinary and interdisciplinary interests in applied problem solving and modeling. COMAP is pleased to announce that next year the ICM will add another problem to the options for contestants in the MCM/ICM. The two ICM problems will include one problem involving network science and an additional problem from the environmental sciences. These two topics relate to emerging areas of interest for advancement of society and are relevant to the future of the student contestants. To obtain additional information about the ICM and to obtain a complete listing of all the team designations, please visit the ICM Website at: www.mcmcontest.com.

Major start-up funding for the ICM was provided by a grant from the National Science Foundation (through Project INTERMATH) and COMAP. Additional support is provided by The Institute for Operations Research and the Management Sciences (INFORMS). COMAP's Mathematical Contest in Modeling and Interdisciplinary Contest in Modeling are unique among modeling competitions in that they are the only international contests in which students work in teams to find a solution. Centering its educational philosophy on mathematical modeling, COMAP uses mathematical tools to explore real-world problems. It serves the educational community as well as the world of work by preparing students to become better informed—and prepared—citizens, consumers, workers, and community leaders.
